Festivals of India

India is called a land of fairs and festivals. It is a country of different communities belonging to different religions. So almost every day we see a festival being celebrated with joy and fun. The festivals make our life colourful and charming. There are some religious festivals, some are based on seasons and some are of national importance. The Indian religious festivals are Diwali, Dussehra, Id-ul-fitr, X' mas, Guru Nanak's birthday etc. These festivals are marked by different communities but celebrated by all, Festivals promote the feeling of communal harmony. Holi, Baiskahi and Basant are important seasonal festivals. The Independence Day, the Republic Day and Gandhi Jayanti are national festivals. These are celebrated with great joy by all the communities throughout the country. Thus, we find that festivals bring a new charm to the lives of Indians.
